BACKGROUND -

The City recently adopted an extensive recodification of the general and permanent ordinances of the City of Des Moines, effective July 1, 2000. The recodification combined those various subchapters related to aviation previously in separate chapters of the City Code into one chapter, Chapter 22. The various subchapters now included in Chapter 22 are the provisions establishing the Airport Board, the height and hazard restrictions, and the general aviation provisions. As part of the recodification, the provision that established penalties for violations of the various articles dealing with aviation was inadvertently restricted to the subchapter on the height and hazard requirements and the subchapter on ground support services. The penalty provision should be for violations of the entire aviation chapter and not just these two subchapters.
