

AGENDA HEADING:

Reaffirming the purpose for certain special revenue funds according to new General Accounting Practices (GASB 54).

SYNOPSIS:

A new accounting practice requires that cities analyze their special revenue accounts to determine their appropriate classification. During the 1980's economic development grants were received to be utilized for economic development activities. The Council resolved at that time that the funds would be loaned out and that repayments and earnings on those amounts would be restricted for the continued purpose of economic development initiatives. Additional amounts (such as donations and land sales) were received subsequent to that time which were also committed for economic development initiatives and, as a result, recorded in this special revenue fund. In lieu of researching council actions dating back more than 25 years, this resolution will confirm and reaffirm the prior commitment at the inception of the special revenue funds for economic development initiatives.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION:

A new accounting rule has been adopted (GASB 54) that introduces new terminology in distinguishing year end fund balances. Currently, ending fund balances are categorized as either Reserved or Unreserved. The new categories starting with the most restrictive are: Nonspendable, Restricted, Committed, Assigned, and Unassigned. The new standard also includes a new definition of special revenue funds.
