EXECUTIVE EXPERIENCE

J.A. McCoy & Son has been a Des Moines business since 1910. Started by my great grandfather this business has evolved in the products it sold and the customers it served, but its presence has been enduring. I served as the corporate president from 1977 to 2000. The focus is consulting architects in the specification of specialty building products and serving commercial contractors throughout the construction process. My knowledge, skills, and abilities are in specification writing and reading architectural construction documents.

PERSONAL PASSION

I am a fourth generation descendant of the McCoy / Sherman / Stretton families who have lived and worked in Des Moines. I have a passion for the City of Des Moines and personal insights to the development of this city over the past 64 years. I have a deep interest in preservation based on the work I have done to my own home and others. I have a desire to preserve the history and integrity of any building structure and landscape in order to retain the valuable stories to the past.

ACADEMIC STRENGTHS

My doctorate degree is in Applied Management and Decision Science with specialization in leadership and organizational change. As a scholar-practitioner, I have research and writing skills to conduct credible investigation of most any organizational problem and to advance viable solution ideas. Professionally I am a university professor who is committed to advancing knowledge. Most of all, I am a lifelong learner who, if given the opportunity, would cherish the opportunity to serve on the Des Moines Historic Preservation Commission.
